This book offers readers a broad view of research in some Western and Eastern European countries on pattern and signal analysis, and on coding, handling and measurement of images. It is a selection of refereed papers from two sources: first, a satellite conference within the biannual International Conference on Pattern Recognition held in Rome, November 14-17, 1988, and second, work done at the International Basic Laboratory on Image Processing and Computer Graphics, Berlin, GDR. The papers are grouped into three sections. The first section contains new proposals for the specific computation of particular features of digital images and the second section is devoted to the introduction and testing of general approaches to the solution of problems met in digital geometry, image coding, feature extraction and object classification. The third section illustrates some recent practical results obtained on real images specifically in character and speech recognition as well as in biomedicine. All the techniques illustrated in this book will find direct application in the near future. This book should interest and stimulate the reader, provoke new thoughts and encourage further research in this widely appealing field.

High Temperatures in Aeronautics is a compilation of the proceedings of the Symposium on High Temperatures in Aeronautics held in Turin, Italy, on September 10-12, 1962. The symposium provided a forum to discuss the applications of high temperatures in aeronautics and covers topics ranging from supersonic combustion to non-equilibrium flow through a nozzle, along with similarity parameters in radiation gas-dynamics and photoionization upstream of a strong shock wave. This volume is comprised of 17 chapters and begins with an overview of the effects and consequences of high temperature in aeronautics, followed by an analysis of experimental results for the dissociation of diatomic gases. A theoretical and experimental investigation of mixing and supersonic combustion is then presented, focusing on inviscid flow fields with a finite rate chemistry for a hydrogen-air reaction. Turbulent mixing for flows with large density gradients having no chemical reaction is also considered, and the results of experiments in supersonic combustion are discussed. Subsequent chapters deal with silicon nitride, its properties, and its potential use at elevated temperatures; materials problems at high temperature; and the corrosion of refractory alloys by oil ash containing vanadium. This monograph will be of interest to students, engineers, and experimental workers in the fields of astronautics and aeronautical engineering.

L'esperienza nel campo della saldatura è un'abilità ricercata nel mercato del lavoro, ma è anche un talento che può rivelarsi molto utile per riparatori e appassionati del fai-da-te. Questo manuale, agile e pratico, presenta tutte le informazioni necessarie per svolgere un'attività comune, ma niente affatto semplice. Dalla valutazione del materiale da saldare, lungo ogni singola fase del processo di saldatura, con facili indicazioni sulle operazioni di rifinitura finale e consigli fondamentali sulle norme di sicurezza.

- Le tecniche più comuni – imparate a conoscere la saldatura bastone, la saldatura TIG e la saldatura MIG
- Quale metallo? – le opzioni disponibili per l'acciaio, l'acciaio inox e l'alluminio e i migliori metodi per saldarli
- La sicurezza – imparate a conoscere le protezioni da indossare, a gestire l'area di lavoro e a prendervi cura delle attrezzature
- Acquistate l'attrezzatura – come scegliere gli attrezzi e gli accessori necessari per l'ambiente ideale e come configurarlo in modo appropriato

L'idea che risiede alla base di questa nuova pubblicazione è quella di realizzare uno strumento didattico completo, che annoveri tanto le tecnologie di saldatura tradizionali, quali quelle ad arco elettrico, quanto quelle più innovative, quali i processi laser ed a fascio elettronico, focalizzandosi in particolare su tutti i procedimenti di maggiore interesse industriale e di più frequente applicazione nel settore della produzione meccanica. La connotazione del testo rimane fortemente orientata verso una trattazione tecnico-scientifica rigorosa dei vari argomenti, lasciando ad altri strumenti, quali ad esempio i manuali tecnici, tutte le considerazioni spiccatamente applicative ed operative. L'intento perseguito dagli autori, infatti, è quello di fornire basi scientifiche e conoscenze utili a comprendere in modo completo e dinamico i processi di saldatura, ponendo particolare attenzione ad una trattazione rigorosa, ma semplice e fruibile, dei fenomeni fisici coinvolti. Il lavoro di revisione del testo relativo ai precedenti volumi ha consentito di migliorare ed integrare la trattazione di numerosi argomenti e di perfezionare ed aggiungere figure, schemi e grafici per una migliore comprensione degli argomenti. In particolare sono state completamente riviste le parti riguardanti le posizioni in saldatura, i processi MIG/MAG e TIG, i procedimenti per punti e la parte relativa a tensioni e deformazioni. Maggiore enfasi e rigore scientifico sono stati dati ai fenomeni che regolano le modalità di trasferimento del materiale d'apporto nella saldatura MIG/MAG ed è stata ampliata la trattazione dei vari tipi di elettrodo di tungsteno e delle miscele di copertura impiegati nei procedimenti TIG. Sono stati anche inseriti nella trattazione numerosi riferimenti a normative specifiche, al fine di sensibilizzare il lettore all'uso di questi strumenti. Così configurato il testo risulta particolarmente adatto agli insegnamenti di tecnologia meccanica e sistemi di lavorazione presenti nei corsi di laurea in ingegneria meccanica, ma trova anche una valida collocazione come strumento didattico in tutti quei contesti, quali master di primo e secondo livello, corsi di istruzione e formazione tecnica superiore e di formazione aziendale, in cui sia necessario un approfondimento completo e rigoroso sulle tematiche di saldatura.

This volume is the first of the series Corollaria Crustumina aimed at the publication of conference proceedings, doctoral theses and specialist studies on the Latin settlement of Crustumium (Rome). It contains multidisciplinary papers of an international group of archaeologists discussing new fieldwork data on Crustumium's settlement, cemeteries and material culture in light of the site's cultural identity.

Il 21 settembre 1962 si compiono cento anni dalla morte del P. Luigi Taparelli d'Azeglio della Compagnia di Gesù. Ricopriva allora la carica di Superiore e Direttore della Civiltà Cattolica, il periodico dei gesuiti italiani al quale aveva dedicato gli ultimi dodici anni della sua vita, dopo averlo tenuto a battesimo nel 1850. Chiudeva gli occhi nel Collegio romano, centro di studi fondato da S. Ignazio di Loyola ed illustrato in tre secoli da uomini insigni nelle scienze sacre ed umane e del quale egli stesso era stato il primo Rettore, quando Leone XII, nel 1824, lo aveva restituito alla Compagnia di Gesù. Questa coincidenza di luogo era l'espressione di una continuità spirituale e di pensiero unificatore che aveva caratterizzato tutta la sua vita. Rettore del Collegio romano, P. Taparelli non era stato soltanto coscienzioso dirigente di un Istituto che raccoglieva per gli studi umanistici il fiore della gioventù romana, e per le scienze sacre gli alunni dei Seminari di tutto il mondo, ma soprattutto un pioniere e capo di un movimento che doveva imprimere un indirizzo al pensiero cattolico. Eredi e partecipi delle ricchezze intellettuali e morali di questa figura di uomo di scienza e di fede, la Pontificia Università Gregoriana e la Civiltà Cattolica hanno voluto commemorare degnamente il compiersi dei cento anni dalla sua morte.

Science, Technology and European Cultural Heritage is a collection of papers from the Proceedings of the European Symposium of the same title held in Bologna, Italy on June 13-16, 1989. The papers discuss the critical issues related to the scientific and technical aspects of the protection and conservation of the cultural heritage of Europe. Participants of the symposium identify and describe the main research and development issues that are common to cultural heritage problems, and increase cooperation in these areas. Other papers examine the applicability of research and development through better matching with the real needs of conservators, restorers, policy makers, and the general public. The participants also discuss specific research and development directions for the future, including the provision of a scientific basis for European Community policies on environment and culture. One paper presents some of the scientific research done both in the field and laboratory of specific historical areas, monuments, indoor objects. As an example, archaeologists can use infrared thermal image analysis as an enhanced tool to detect buried archeological and historical sites. Another paper analyzes the chemical and physical properties of deteriorated stones in historical monuments in Castile-Leon. The collection can prove useful for archaeologists, historians, museum curators, and policy makers involved in national and cultural preservation.
