At the core of this book lies the relation between Power (as socio-political phenomenon) and the novel (as literary discourse). It shows that, in a society facing the excess of power in its various forms, novelistic fiction mediates knowledge about societal Power structures and uses specific strategies to subvert and denounce them. The first part of the study is theoretical: it presents some of the most prominent theories of Power, from Plato, Machiavelli, Nietzsche to Weber, Dahl, Lukes, Parsons, Bourdieu or Foucault. After offering a critical approach to the concepts of Power defined in the social, political and philosophical fields, it articulates the relations of Power imprinted in literary discourse within a typology of four categories. In the second part of the book, this taxonomy of Power is applied to four key novels in the context of Romanian "literary crossroads", showing how novelistic fiction not only assume a critical and subversive position against the excess of Power, but also unveils our fragility when experiencing History. Beginning with 1953, entries for Motion pictures and filmstrips, Music and phonorecords form separate parts of the Library of Congress catalogue. Entries for Maps and atlases were issued separately 1953-1955. This study challenges the rose-tinted view of the interwar period in Romanian history, which is often judged against the darkness of almost five decades of Communist rule. Romania, like several of the states of Eastern Europe, emerged from the First World War as it had entered it, as a predominantly agricultural country, and one of its major problems was the condition of the peasantry. This volume's focus is the drive to improve that condition, on the collapse of democracy, and the search by Romania's leaders for strategies to secure the state, to assert the country's independence, and to maintain its territorial integrity in the face of the threat to the European order posed by two totalitarian systems, represented by Nazi Germany and the Soviet Union. By examining recent scholarship, this volume provides the most up-to-date account of Romania's predicament in the interwar years. Romania, 1916-1941 is a useful resource for upper-level undergraduates, postgraduates and scholars interested in foreign policy, politics, society, internationalization and late development in interwar Central and Eastern Europe. CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title 2017 Romania since the Second World War is the first book about Romania designed to chart the progress of the nation under the communist regime as well as the transition period that followed, providing detailed analysis of the aspects of continuity and change that can be identified over the period as a whole. The book begins with Romania's involvement in the Second World War, looking at the communist regime in depth. It examines how communism took hold and the elimination of traditional elites took place, before discussing the impact of Gheorghiu-Dej and Nicolae Ceausescu, the two most important leaders of the communist era. The following chapters cover the main social and economic changes during the communist regime. The second part of the book explores the transition period following the end of communism in 1989, with special attention given to international relations and Romania's drive for inclusion in NATO and the EU. Romania since the Second World War assesses socio-demographic trends across the postwar period before concluding with some thoughts on the nation's development during this time. The book includes a useful appendix covering the key figures in Romania's recent history and a helpful bibliography, making this a key text for anyone interested in the modern history of Eastern Europe. Praise for the print edition: "...a useful and engaging reference to the vast world of the novel in world literature." The essays in Canadian Cultural Exchange / Échanges culturels au Canada provide a nuanced view of Canadian transcultural experience. Rather than considering Canada as a bicultural dichotomy of colonizer/colonized, this book examines a field of many cultures and the creative interactions among them. This study discusses, from various perspectives, Canadian cultural space as being in process of continual translation of both the other and oneself. Les articles réunis dans Canadian Cultural Exchange / Échanges culturels au Canada donnent de l'expérience transculturelle canadienne une image nuancée. Plutôt que dans les termes d'une dichotomie biculturelle entre colonisateur et colonisé, le Canada y est vu comme champ où plusieurs cultures interagissent de manière créative. Cette étude présente sous de multiples aspects le processus continu de traduction d'autrui et de soi-même auquel l'espace culturel canadien sert de théâtre. The Literature of Nationalism concerns literature in its broadest sense and the manner in which, in belles lettres, the oral tradition and journalism, language and literature create national/nationalist myths. It treats East European culture from Finland to 'Yugoslavia', from Bohemia to Romania, from the nineteenth century to today. One third of the book concerns women and ethnic identity, and the rest covers subjects as varied as Bulgarian Fascism and the impact of political change on language in Hungary and ex-Yugoslavia. First Published in 2017. This book contains Deletant's research and view that an inescapable feature of life in Romania under Ceausescu was the ubiquity of the Securitate or the security police, known officially for much of the period as the Department of State Security of the Ministry of the Interior. He seeks to right the omission in Romanian literature, until now, of the mechanism of terror which Stalin used in Romania to enforce his will and about the organisation of the Department of State Security. Novel Most Beloved of Earthlings is based on the cultural personalities of the time L. Blaga, Ion Caraion. In terms of installation of the communist regime in Romania 's novel Marin Preda is a work of fiction - route existential of Victor Petrini, character actor, is tragic fired from the position of Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Philosophy, Victor Petrini is given a existence tragic: descends the stairs of the social hierarchy, the character gets work in a team of pest control, human misery knows where. the structure of the novel: Consisting of ten parts arranged in three volumes. "The most beloved ..." is a diary, a lucid and bitter confession, written in the first person by a man who has eluded one chance ... Cartea "Romanul existentialist postbelic: Marin PREDĂ, Augustin BUZURA, Nicolae BREBAN" urmărește formarea unei grile a filosofiei existențialiste de sorginte europeană și aplicarea ei în romane românești din perioada postbelică, pentru a demonstra, uneori refugiul scriiturii către idei existențialiste, fără a se clama sorgintea lor. Existențialismul în romane ale lui Marin Preda, Augustin Buzura sau Nicolae Breban își face apariția utilizând un culoar care respecta rigorile cenzurii, dar și cerințele cititorilor dornici de literatură. Se găsesc, astfel, influențe ale marilor scriitori existențialiști care merită studiate la suprafață, în condițiile în care valorificarea noțiunilor existențialiste preluate din opera lui Sartre, fie ea filozofică sau literară, ori din scrierile lui Camus sau din opera insolită a lui Kafka nu poate fi negată. Nu se putea susține că trăim într-o societate absurdă, pentru că regimul comunist trebuia să reprezinte orânduirea perfectă. Cenzura nu a permis să se scrie despre o societate care corupe oamenii, îi transformă și, în cele din urmă, în termenii lui Augustin Buzura, le provoacă o moarte psihică, dar se putea scrie despre o religie nouă care, însă, întrona o altă lume, pervertindu-i pe oamenii vechi. Nu era voie, într-o anumită perioadă, să se scrie despre situații limită pentru care elemente din „societatea perfectă” erau de vină și s-a găsit culoarul situațiilor limită generate de existența dintr-o zonă socială care trebuia reformată. Compromisurile făcute uneori regimului comunist și aparatului său de propagandă au menirea de a evidenția și mai mult caracterul existențial al ideilor care se desprind, aproape firesc, din romanele studiate. This volume highlights the specific experiences and challenges of modernity in twentieth-century Eastern and Central Europe. Contributors ask how spatial and temporal conditions shaped the region's transformation from a rural to an urban, industrialized society in this period and investigate the state's role in the mastery of space, particularly in the context of state socialism. The volume also sheds light on the ruralization of cities and mutual perceptions of the rural and urban populations in this region. Vols. for 1969- include ACTFL annual bibliography of books and articles on pedagogy in foreign languages 1969- In the immediate aftermath of World War II, Paul Celan moved to Bucharest, where he spent more than two years working as a translator at Carta Rusa publishing house. During that time he was introduced to poet and translator Petre Solomon and began a close friendship that would endure many years, despite the distances that separated them and the turbulent times in which they lived. In this poignant memoir, Solomon recalls the experiences he shared with Celan and captures the ways in which Bucharest profoundly influenced Celan's evolution as a poet. He recounts the publication of the famous "Todesfuge" for the first time in the Romanian magazine Agora and his fertile connection with the Romanian surrealist movement. Through Solomon's vivid recollection and various letters Celan sent to friends, readers also get an intimate glimpse of Celan's personality, one characterized by a joyful appreciation of friendship and a subtle sense of humor. Translated from the original, Teglă's edition makes this remarkable memoir available to a much-deserved wider audience for the first time. This book argues that hesitation as an artistic and spectatorial strategy connects various screen media texts produced in post-war Romania. The chapters draw a historical connection between films made during the state socialist decades, televised broadcasts of the 1989 Romanian revolution, and films of the new Romanian cinema. The book explores how the critical attitude of new Romanian cinema demonstrates a refusal to accept limiting, binary discourses rooted in Cold War narratives. Strausz argues that hesitation becomes an attempt to overcome restrictive populist narratives of the past and present day. By employing a performative and mobile position, audiences are encouraged to consider conflicting approaches to history and social transformation. National literary histories based on internally homogeneous native traditions have significantly contributed to the construction of national identities, especially in multicultural East-Central Europe, the region between the German and Russian hegemonic cultural powers stretching from the Baltic states to the Balkans. History of the Literary Cultures of East-Central Europe, which covers the last two hundred years, reconceptualizes these literary traditions by de-emphasizing the national myths and by highlighting analogies and points of contact, as well as hybrid and marginal phenomena that traditional national histories have ignored or deliberately suppressed. The four volumes of the History configure the literatures from five angles: (1) key political events, (2) literary periods and genres, (3) cities and regions, (4) literary institutions, and (5) real and imaginary figures. The first volume, which includes the first two of these dimensions, is a collaborative effort of more than fifty contributors from Eastern and Western Europe, the US, and Canada. The four volumes of the History comprise the first volume in the new subseries on Literary Cultures. Over the last decade, audiences worldwide have become familiar with highly acclaimed films from the Romanian New Wave such as 4 Months, 3 Weeks and 2 Days (2007), The Death of Mr. Lazarescu (2005), and 12:08 East of Bucharest (2006). However, the hundred or so years of Romanian cinema leading to these accomplishments have been largely overlooked. This book is the first to provide in-depth analyses of essential works ranging from the silent period to contemporary productions. In addition to relevant information on historical and cultural factors influencing contemporary Romanian cinema, this volume covers the careers of daring filmmakers who approached various genres despite fifty years of Communist censorship. An important chapter is dedicated to Lucian Pintilie, whose seminal work, Reconstruction (1969), strongly inspired Romania's 21st-century innovative output. The book's second half closely examines both the 'minimalist' trend (Cristian Mungiu, Cristi Puiu, Corneliu Porumboiu, Radu Muntean) and the younger, but no less inspired, directors who have chosen to go beyond the 1989 revolution paradigm by dealing with the complexities of contemporary Romania. First Published in 1999. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an informa company. Theory in the "Post" Era brings together the work and perspectives of a group of Romanian theorists who discuss the morphings of contemporary theory in what the editors call the "post" era. Since the Cold War's end and especially in the third millennium, theorists have been exploring the aftermath - and sometimes just the "after" - of whole paradigms, the crisis or "passing" of anthropocentrism, the twilight of an entire ontological and cultural "condition," as well as the corresponding rise of an antagonist model, of an "anti," "meta," or "neo" alternative, with examples ranging from "posthumanism" and "post-postmodernism" to "post-aesthetics," "postanalog" interpretation or "digicriticism," "post-presentism," "post-memory," "post-" or "neo-critique," and so forth. It is no coincidence, the contributors to this volume argue, that this "post" moment is also a time when theory is practiced as a world genre. If theory has always been a "worlded" enterprise, a quintessentially communal, cross-cultural and international project, this is truer at present than ever. Perhaps more than other humanist constituencies, today's theorists work and belong in a theory commons that is transnational if still uneven economically, politically, and otherwise. Theory in the "Post" Era reports the results of Romanian theory experiments that join efforts made in other places to foster a theory for the "post" age. The documents emerging from the secret police archives of the former Soviet bloc have caused scandal after scandal, compromising revered cultural figures and abruptly ending political careers. Police Aesthetics offers a revealing and responsible approach to such materials. Taking advantage of the partial opening of the secret police archives in Russia and Romania, Vatulescu focuses on their most infamous holdings—the personal files—as well as on movies the police sponsored, scripted, or authored. Through the archives, she gains new insights into the writing of literature and raises new questions about the ethics of reading. She shows how police files and films influenced literature and cinema, from autobiographies to novels, from high-culture classics to avant-garde experiments and popular blockbusters. In so doing, she opens a fresh chapter in the heated debate about the relationship between culture and politics in twentieth-century police states. Nici avangardiștii cei mai radicali n-au putut ignora total tradiția, deși, la modul teoretic, au pretins că au aruncat-o la coșul de gunoi. Un Urmuz a valorificat absurdul care nu lipsește din folclor, dar nici din Caragiale. „Constructiviștii” au simțit tentația să-l asimileze pe Brâncuși la avangardă etc. Iată însă că postmoderniștii au ajuns la „înțelepciunea” că lumea contemporană începe doar cu dâșii. Am auzit voci spunând că Liviu Rebreanu este atât de „învechit”, încât nu mai are ce căuta în programele de învățământ. Nu mai vorbim de Eminescu. Acesta n-ar fi decât un scriitor „istoricizat”, interesant, cel mult, prin câteva poeme cu tentă parodic-textualistă, cum susține un eminent istoric literar, care consideră că locul în „canonul literar” românesc trebuie cedat postmodernistului Mircea Cărtărescu, cu detronarea „poetului național”, sintagmă complet „depășită”. Captatio benevolentiae din conferința Aurei Crhisi începe cu o astfel de provocare: „M-am întrebat nu o dată, pe întinderea ultimilor ani, ce s-ar întâmpla dacă, într-o bună zi, ne-am pomeni față în față cu Mihai (sau Mihail, cum îi spunea Nichita Stănescu) Eminescu, cu Lucian Blaga sau Nicolae Iorga, cu George Călinescu sau Liviu Rebreanu, cu Titu Maiorescu sau cu una dintre marile doamne ale literaturii române, Hortensia Papadat-Bengescu? S-ar simți acasă? Aici, printre noi, scriitorii români... Aceste întrebări ar stârni, fără îndoială, ironiile sau comentariile sarcastice ale multor postmoderniști, textualiști, douămiiști sau post-post-moderniști, care și-au întocmit, într-o grabă suspectă, precipitată, o «nouă tablă de valori acceptate», fiindcă noțiunea de cultură e... «suspectă din punct de vedere politic!» Desigur, acești mari scriitori nu s-ar mai simți acasă, ci abandonați, cu patria lor cu tot, în numele alteia, obscură, fudulă, în vulgaritatea ei, hibridă din punct de vedere nu numai cultural, așa cum o prevedea, alarmat, Mircea Eliade în celebra lui conferință din 1953, Destinul culturii românești. / Theodor Codreanu This book argues that during the Cold War modern political imagination was held captive by the split between two visions of universality—freedom in the West versus social justice in the East—and by a culture of secrecy that tied national identity to national security. Examining post- 1945 American and Eastern European interpretive novels in dialogue with each other and with postfoundational democratic theory, The Underside of Politics brings to light the ideas, forces, and circumstances that shattered modernity's promises (such as secularization, autonomy, and rights) on both sides of the Iron Curtain. In this context, literary fictions by Kundera and Roth, Popescu and Coover, Kiš and DeLillo become global as they reveal the trials of popular sovereignty in the "fog of the Cold War" and trace the elements around which its world discourse or global picture is constructed: the atom bomb, Stalinist show trials, anticommunist propaganda, totalitarian terror, secret military operations, and political targeting. The Facts On File Companion to the World Novel : 1900 to the Present is a new two-volume reference guide featuring more than 600 entries on the world's greatest modern novels and novelists, including everything from acknowledgments. Includes entries for maps and atlases. The cultural politics of commemorating war. This volume will be of interest to everyone seeking to understand the relationship between war as an historical narrative and its representation in the arts and in culture, notably in literature, film, theatre and music. More specifically, it will be of the greatest interest to undergraduates, postgraduates, researchers and academics in a wide range of disciplines, including literary studies, film and drama studies, music, and history. The Introduction, by Jay Winter, sets the context, particularly with reference to the First World War, while the Conclusion summarises the significance of the research undertaken and its value for future research. This book will also have an impact on writers, publishers and organizers of exhibitions, museums, memorial sites and monuments whose influence in the field of war and memory has been increasing steadily in recent years. The imminent celebrations and commemorations pertaining to the Great War, beginning in 2014, together with the imminence of the seventieth anniversary of the end of the Second World War in 2015, will provide additional stimuli to public attention in this area over the next few years. Stephen Henighan billets with a family as an English teacher in Moldova, a country born from the dismantling of Romania during World War II. Communism has cast a long shadow over Romania. The passage of little over a quarter of a century since the overthrow in December 1989 of Romania's last Communist leader, Nicolae Ceaușescu, offers a symbolic standpoint from which to penetrate that shadow and to throw light upon the entire period of Communist rule in the country. An appropriate point of departure is the observation that Romania's trajectory as a Communist state within the Soviet bloc was unlike that of any other. That trajectory has its origins in the social structures, attitudes and policies in the pre-Communist period. The course of that trajectory is the subject of this inquiry.
